LIQUID PEPPER AND ITS HISTORY:

Prepared originally for private use, it soon found its way, without effort, into popular favor and use and is now to cound on well-appointed tables in every civilized country on the globe.

Characteristics: This preparation is simply the pulp of the ripe Pepper so handled as to retain all the flavor, trength, aroma, and color of the ripe fruit and to keep unimpaired in any climate. [It is simply LIQUID PEPPER.] Its flavor is essentially unique and its natural delicacy cannot be attained by the chemical or artificial means employed in cheap imitations. Its strength is so great that it should always be mixed with gravies, sauces and other continents before using, and one or two drops will be found sufficient for a plate of soup, meat, oysters, etc. The form in which it is put up (in two-ounce bottles) makes it exceedingly convenient to use, and its concentrated form makes it the most economical of all forms of pepper. Price per bottle, 50c. "It pays to buy the best."

The shooting of flagman Wright by

Sergeant W. S. Grymes, of Orange, at that place Saturday, is regarded as a matter of very serious character. It was the result of a old feud and was precipitated by a sharp spat in which Sergeant Grymes, who is about half the size and strength of Mr. Wright, was knocked down, and in obedience to "the first law of nature" shot the faithful flagman in the thigh. It is hoped that he will soon be at his post of duty, and that he and Sergeant Grymes will be more particular how
